Counseling for young children and their families

It's hard being a parent.

It's hard watching your child struggle to communicate her needs. It's hard to know what to do when your child is angry or upset. What's typical toddler behavior, and what's not?

You're not alone. Our compassionate, supportive counselors can help you navigate the challenges of parenthood and create strong, positive bonds with your baby and/or toddler, and we can help you work through tough behaviors like:

- Excessive tantrums
- Withdrawing from activities
- Aggression
- Biting and hitting
- Difficulty with attachments

What can I expect?

By partnering together, we'll help you create strong, positive bonds with your child. During weekly sessions in the comfort of your home, our early childhood center or even online, your Early Learning Centers Support Team counselor will support you through this journey.

You'll learn skills and techniques to work through challenging behaviors. You'll learn how to develop strong bonds with your child. You'll learn how to work through trauma your child and/or your family may have experienced so you can become stronger and healthier – together.

You'll find hope, caring support and a path toward a brighter, happier tomorrow.

Who qualifies?

Available at your child's early learning center, in the comfort of your own home, or online, services are provided free of cost to families and children from birth to 5 years old who have experienced trauma or struggle with emotion regulations and behaviors.
